EMPOWERING HEALTHCARE WITH CUTTING-EDGE TECHNOLOGY

Today, Ruby Hall Clinic is among the leading healthcare institutions in the country. What were the pain points that you addressed to bring about this turn around Dr. Grant?

Over the years, Ruby Hall Clinic has become a brand synonymous with quality healthcare. As a hospital, we've ensured we leave no stone unturned when it comes to being recognised as a healthcare organisation that provides high quality, technologically advanced compassionate care.

We've had to overcome countless challenges to get to where we are. From increasing the bed capacity at the hospital to the launch of satellite centres across the city, from union wage settlements — which we can proudly say have been agreed upon undisputed to staying abreast of the latest medical trends and technological equipment; we have passionately set out to overcome all obstacles. With this, we hope to ensure no stone remains unturned when it comes to each and every patient receiving the high-quality, compassionate care they deserve.

WHO has said that health should be looked at as "a state of complete physical, mental and social well being and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity". But for this, healthcare would need a major revamp. Dr. Grant, what are your thoughts on this?
