

SAPTI INVITES THE WORLD TO SHILPOTSAV

Stone Artisan Park Training Institute (SAPTI) was established by the Office of Commissioner of Geology & Mining, Industries & Mines Department, Govt. of Gujarat in 2009 to harness the tremendous potential of the state's stone industry and to carry forward its valuable heritage of stone art and architecture.

Two artisan parks, one in Ambaji - North Gujarat, and the other in Dhrangadhra - Saurashtra Region of Gujarat were set up to explore creative possibilities in white marble and sandstone respectively. However, in addition, other stone types are also used for making stone art and crafts. SAPTI fosters the dynamic process of skill formation and knowledge building. All the students at SAPTI are given ample opportunities to hone their abilities in stone carving skills, design development, digital tools, entrepreneurship, and getting a real-life experience through industrial training.

Ambaji, a small town in Gujarat witnessed a series of unique Stone Sculpture Symposiums under the aegis of SHILPOTSAV. These symposiums have carved a unique reputation for exquisite explorations and renditions in the age-old medium of stone. The thematic approach of the stone sculptures in these symposiums has been envisioned to adorn various outdoor sites in Ambaji and will connect the masses with the cultural and historical context of the spiritual aspect of the town and country as a whole.

Revitalisation initiative of Ambaji

The 1st National Sculpture Symposium – Shilpankur, was conducted in June 2022. The 20-day event was very inspiring as the young and upcoming participants enjoyed a stimulating environment to create works of art.

During the 2nd National Sculpture Symposium – Shilpakriti, impressive sculptures were carved and interactions with the sculptors were

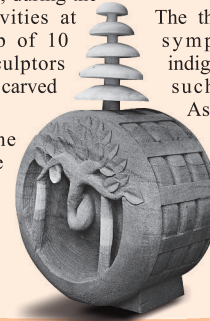

The term Shilpotsav is derived from the conjunction of two Hindi/Sanskrit words Shilpa - meaning Sculpture/Artwork and Utsav as a Festival. Hence, collectively Shilpotsav translates as Festival of Sculpture or Art. Likewise, the term Sangam in the title of the symposium means Confluence, thereby denoting the Confluence of Sculpture, given the international and broad scope of the event.

promoted. Practicing sculptors of senior stature from various states across India participated in Shilpakriti. Similarly, Shilpankan, the 3rd National Sculpture Symposium was held from 3rd to 22nd September 2022, during the Bhadravi Purnima festivities at Ambaji. A mixed group of 10 emerging and senior sculptors from various Indian states carved their creativity in stone.

From 18th December, the 4th National Sculpture Symposium, titled Shilpasmriti, was conducted for 20 days. Traditional sculptors from various Indian States carved the Swaroop of Shakti or the Shakti Peeth specific to their states. The finished sculptures will be displayed along the Parikramapath at Gabbar Hill Shrine in Ambaji.

The thematic approach of these symposiums encompasses indigenous and historical aspects such as Spirituality, Yoga Asanas, Pancha Tatva/Panch Maha Boota, 64 Shilpa techniques from Shilpa Shastra, 16 Sanskaars, Nav Rasa, and the historical context of Ambaji.

SHILPASANGAM

SCULPTURE SYMPOSIUM'S OBJECTIVES

As the New Year dawns upon us, from 19th January to 7th February 2023, SAPTI - Ambaji is organising Shilpasangam, the 5th and the grandest of its symposiums solely for international sculptors from across the globe.

01

To identify SAPTI and Ambaji as comprehensive centers of stone art with a global perspective.

02

To provide international sculptors with an opportunity to perceive the ethos of Indian sculptures.

03

To create monumental sculptures, reflecting true global synergy and the true spirit of internationalism.
