Hear every minute detail in a game with this pair of headphones; team chats are also crystal clear

SUPER SONIC

The rustle of wind, ragged breathing, muffled voices, stealthy footsteps—hear them all on this pair of made-in-Germany headphones. Offering clear, three-dimensional powerful sound to complement the gaming experience, this pair comes with a wired remote control that puts common actions like muting the microphone and controlling the volume at your fingertips. The high-quality condenser microphone is a boon for team voice chats in multiplayer games; it ensures you hear the voice of your teammates loud and clear no matter the conditions around you. Weighing just 332 gm, these wired headphones come with a stereo 3.5-mm jack and a 6.35-mm adaptor

LIGHT IT RIGHT

Ever wondered why gaming rooms have ambient lighting? That's because matching the colour and intensity of lights reduces the strain on your eyes, while enhancing your gaming experience. This limited edition from Nanoleaf features triangular light panels and comes with back-mounting hardware and power accessories. With a black finish while the lights are off, these panels offer vibrant, high-contrast RGB lighting animations when turned on. The lights have smart features such as screen mirror, where the colours from the on-screen activity are reflected onto the lights; they also support rhythm music visualiser that synchronises the lights with the music around them.
