

NSE's Bull

ASHISHKUMAR CHAUHAN took over as MD & CEO of the NSE on July 26, a day after relinquishing his corner office at the BSE. It would be interesting to see how Chauhan, who was with the NSE earlier, manages the country's largest bourse known for its monopoly in various segments, including equity derivatives. Chauhan—an avid proponent of wealth creation and capital formation via stocks—has often referred to the country's high equity-to-derivatives ratio as encouraging speculative activity.

—ASHISH RUKHAIYAR

WHAT'S NEXT?

PRASHANT JAIN is one of the most high-profile fund managers of the mutual fund industry. At HDFC MF, he was managing three schemes with assets totalling nearly ₹90,000 crore before he decided to quit after a 19-year stint. Many in the industry believe the signals were loud and clear late last year when HDFC MF got a new CEO from a rival fund house. Going by the history of such star fund managers, a new investment firm could be on the anvil soon.

—ASHISH RUKHAIYAR

THE SOFTWARE DID IT

Volkswagen CEO Herbert Diess, who joined the German automaker in 2018 when it was recovering from the 2015 Dieselgate scandal, will step down on September 1, three years before completing his term. Industry insiders say his failure to turn around Cariad, the company's software unit—that led to delays in launches of several new models of Porsche, Audi and Bentley—seems to have cost him his job.

—PRERNA LIDHOO

The failure to turn around the carmaker's software unit Cariad may have cost Volkswagen CEO Herbert Diess his job

TWIST IN THE TALE

The debt-laden Kishore Biyani-promoted Future Retail will now have its lenders initiate insolvency proceedings. After a protracted battle for ownership between e-commerce major Amazon and Reliance Retail, this is a fresh twist. Interestingly, the latter already has possession of a large number of Big Bazaar and Central outlets belonging to Future Retail. How the battle will play out from this point onwards will be interesting as a bruised Amazon may not be in any mood to give up.

—KRISHNA GOPALAN

New Avenues

Airbnb Co-founder Joe Gebbia will remain on its board after stepping down from his role at the company. In a letter addressed to the Airbnb Community, he said his "brain is bursting with more ideas to bring to the world," and he will be working on projects including documentary film-making, philanthropy and a complementary product to Airbnb.

—BINU PAUL

The Change Agent

A SLEW of changes has been introduced in the insurance sector since Debasish Panda became Chairman of regulator IRDAI. The latest is to empower insurers to empanel hospitals that meet the standards and benchmarks set by their boards. Earlier, hospitals had to register for empanelment with the Insurance Information Bureau's Registry of Hospitals in the Network of Insurers (ROHINI). The move will help health insurers broaden their spectrum of healthcare networks.

—TEENA JAIN KAUSHAL