The Duo lets you and your friend use your favourite buds to enjoy in-flight entertainment

AIR BUDDY

We're used to using headphones/earphones sans wires. So why make an exception when you're flying? Break free of wires with this flight accessory. The transmitter plugs into the in-flight audio jack and you and a buddy can use your preferred wireless headphones or earbuds to enjoy the in-flight entertainment on offer at the same time. The battery lasts a good 20 hours and should last most flights. Do remember to plug out the accessory though before you disembark.

Wherever you go, this piece of luggage will follow you

FOLLOW ME, MATE

If you travel a lot but hate lugging cabin luggage around, fret not. This 20-inch carry-on case will follow you wherever you go—as long as you're wearing the accompanying smart band/bracelet. It comes with the Airwheel app that connects over Bluetooth to let you change speed and track its position. If the luggage is out of range, the app sounds an alarm, while the band vibrates. It packs in a 62.6-Wh battery and weighs 6 kg.
