

Retracing Footprints of Lord Ram, Page from the Epic Ramayana

To glorify the legacy of Lord Ram, a paragon of righteousness, Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel led Chhattisgarh Government has launched one of the most ambitious projects named the Ram Van Gaman Tourism Circuit Project. The project will be completed in three developmental phases connecting places having historical links with Shri Ram, who spent a major part of his exile in this state. The primary objectives of the project is leverage Chhattisgarh into a global tourism destination by promoting religious tourism. The development of places in and around the circuit is envisaged to boost local economy through employment generation.

A Vibrant Kaleidoscope

The landlocked state of Chhattisgarh located on the plains of the upper Mahanadi Basin is as ancient as it can be. With a topography that ranges from river basins, plains, valleys, plateau, dense flora and fauna, the state attracts tourists from across the world to its national parks, wildlife sanctuaries, waterfalls, tribal life, temples and rich heritage and culture. Famous as the rice bowl of India, Chhattisgarh, meaning 'thirty-six forts,' got statehood in November 2000. The history of the region, however, dates back to about the 4th century CE, when it was known as Dakshina (or South) Kosala. Chhattisgarh should be a must on the bucket list of those who are keen on history, ancient monuments and vibrant nature, soaking in the immersive experience they offer.

Lord Ram's Footprints in Chhattisgarh

There are many evidences that establish that Lord Ram and Ramayana had links with Chhattisgarh. The state during times of the epic age of the Ramayana, finds

Shri Bhupesh Baghel
Hon'ble Chief Minister