

Chhattisgarh's Rural Sector Flourishing with Job Opportunities

Nowadays, livestock breeding has become an important part of rural infrastructure in addition to farming. For proper rearing of cattle, the place is called Gaushalas. In Chhattisgarh, this place is known as Gauthan. Here, a shed is formed for stray cattle where neat and tidy arrangements are made for their proper living. Here, sick, wounded and stray cattle are treated. For ensuring proper health and good quality milk, the cows are given proper fodder and balanced animal diet. For their proper rearing and upkeep, various personnel are also being appointed in Gauthans. For better economic activities, women group have been attached to the vermicompost production. For boosting employment opportunities, now rural industrial parks are also being opened. The benefits are directly going to the youths of the village who are getting new forms of employment directly in the villages.

It is being said that a new chapter of justice is being written in the State of Chhattisgarh for the holistic development of State under various schemes like Rajiv Gandhi Kisan Nyay Yojna, Godhan Nyay Yojna, Rajiv Gandhi Gramin Bhoomiheen Krishi

Mazdoor Nyay Yojna. The benefits of these schemes are directly percolating to the various sections of the State and they are marching on the path of development.

The Chief Minister of the State Mr. Bhupesh Baghel is continuously striving to develop 'Nava Chattisgarh'. This is the reason why Chattisgarh has low unemployment in the whole country. He has said that the State government has taken steps for preserving culture, values, and resources of Chhattisgarh and also provide able administration to the public. New administrative units have been formed to ensure that development reaches to every people of the state. In the last four years, 6 new districts, 85 tehsils and 11 new departments have been formed.
