

ALMEX INDUSTRIES: FORGING AHEAD GLORIOUSLY

Quite often, the stories of companies as the biographies of the founders. The success of Almex Industries is the saga of Amrish Aggarwal's rise against the odds.

Life doesn't deal a fair hand to everyone. What you make out of it, defines you. That you are the architect of your destiny, is the quote that often gets bandied around. Life dealt Amrish Aggarwal a raw hand. As a teenager he saw his world collapsing around him, with his father battling cancer. Standing by his father and doing what little he could, he saw his father losing the fight and the family responsibility getting transferred to his young shoulders. By the time he could steady the ship and give it some semblance of order, he has lost his mother too. But what he had not lost was his steadfast belief in himself and the desire to shape a secure destiny for himself, his family and everyone around him.

The story of Almex Industries Private Limited began 40 years ago, in a warehouse cum office off the streets of Sadar Bazaar, Old Delhi. The firm started with trading in aluminium products. The soul of the firm is still aluminium. But it has expanded to manufacturing from being just a trading firm. While the company has a large employee base now, the small team that lay the foundation of the company has stayed together as a family.

Across 25 years, Amrish has dedicated his time and energy to build Almex Industries. In 2009, he took a leap of faith to venture into manufacturing with a unit in Khushkhera, Rajasthan. Almex is now an established name in North India. The company offers a wide range of products like aluminium coil, aluminium sheet, pharma foil, PP caps closure stock, etc. They offer a variety of sizes and thickness depending on the international specifications. Amrish's mantras of Honesty, Hard work and Courage have catapulted Almex Industries into the top league of aluminium trading and manufacturing. He is now planning to take it global with a new manufacturing venture. He plans to open 3 new units in Jammu, India. This will pitchfork Almex Industries to the major league.. He is also widening his horizons by stepping into pharmaceuticals. Amrish hopes to make AIPL the leading company in all the verticals it operates in. The journey of a company that had a turnover of just 'forty lakhs' back in the day to a current turnover of 'two hundred crores' has just begun.

If Amrish's journey has been inspiring, so has been his demeanour. He has treated each and every staff member as his own and made sure they feel happy and content, knowing the company might be his but the people are a very big part of it. He might be a brilliant businessman, but takes pride in being the doting father of three and a loving husband, to boot. He has made sure that his kids get to fulfil every dream and aspiration that they believe in and never have to go through the hardships that he went through as a child.

Dreaming and Achieving is what Amrish does. And the cycle start again with bigger dreams to be achieved. For him though, his family is the driving force behind it all.

The company that has transformed from a trading unit to a leading manufacturing unit now dreams to grow into a global powerhouse. Amrish is writing it's destiny, we say.

For more details:

Email: amrishaggarwal.almex@gmail.com | www.linkedin.com/in/amrish-aggarwal

