

Noida-based organic vegetable delivery app Sabzikart.com, points to the risk: “We are on the brink of what could be cost push inflation (which occurs due to rise in production costs). Increased fuel prices are bound to create these pressures, especially in logistics-dependent sectors, and the end user may have to brace for impact.” To mitigate the impact on MSMEs, Aniket Dani, Director of CRISIL Research, says some quick steps need to be taken, including aggregation of raw material requirement of MSMEs by the government for better economies of scale; PLI (production-linked incentive) support for ancillaries in sectors such as automotive, batteries and pharmaceuticals, and a six-month moratorium on GST payments for MSMEs to alleviate working capital stress, among other necessary measures.

Unusual times need unusual fixes. Brace for a stormy ride. BT

With inputs from Rajat Mishra

@alokeshb