Some invaluable insights from our consortium of investors and mentors

Aditya Ghosh,
Chief Mentor, Ladies Who Lead

"What is the market opportunity? Where is the big gap? Who is your customer? Where will you use the investor capital and how do they get visibility on how it is being employed? These are the things you as a founder need to focus on."

Preeta Sukhtankar,
Founder, The Label Life

"It is more difficult to grow online than offline since building tech platforms involves a lot of work.

Determine whether or not you need an omni-channel approach."

Anjali Singh,
Managing Director at Deutsche Bank, Head - India Operations, Deutsche India; National President, WICCI Banking Council

"As your enterprise matures, choose your mentors! Go out there and ask for advice."

Gazal Kalra,
Founder & CEO, Stealth Startup

"Think big. Think whatever you are building, how can it solve a larger bigger problem. And of course, be very sharp about the solution."

Archana Jahagirdar,
Managing Partner, Rukam Capital

"Don't be scared to talk about your numbers. The gods of small details and execution are everything. The numbers won't allow anyone to take away anything that you are building."

Sid Talwar,
Partner, Lightbox

"One big mistake is people just trying to ride a fringe wave. Choosing your investor wisely to make sure they don't put pressure on you to go down that road is a big part of your journey."
