

ing the study period between October 2022 and September 2023. Now it takes even higher market value to make it into our list of India's Most Valuable Companies (see page 130 for the full list). This year's 500th company, Engineers India, has an average m-cap of ₹5,586 crore, compared to the ₹4,893 crore m-cap of last year's 500th ranked Infibeam Avenues. The list has also uncovered some surprising trends.

Select firms from sectors like defence, railways, metals, renewables and PSUs—that were previously overlooked by investors—have seen a significant rise in their one-year average m-cap, while some pharma, new-age and chemical companies witnessed a decline. Meanwhile, the broader equity markets outpaced large-caps with wider margins. The benchmark BSE Sensex witnessed a 16 per cent rise, whereas the BSE MidCap and SmallCap indices surged 32 per cent and 33 per cent, respectively, during the same period.

Let's go deeper to comprehend the movement in the m-cap of BT500 firms through this year, which was marked by geopolitical tensions and a downturn in developed nations like the US and the UK.

THE WINNERS

Mukesh Ambani-led Reliance Industries has retained the top spot on the BT500 list this year with an average m-cap of ₹16,74,550 crore during the study period. Interestingly, Mazagon Dock Shipbuilders, a public-sector company from the defence sector, has emerged as the top gainer. The one-year average m-cap of this Mumbai-headquartered company has surged by 271.20 per cent to ₹21,510 crore on September 30, 2023, from ₹5,794 crore in the corresponding period last year.
