

SHAPING FUTURE LEADERS

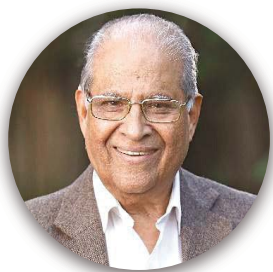

SINCE 1995

Since its inception, XIME's founding mission has been to shape future leaders and hence contribute towards nation-building. There are multiple paths towards true leadership. And at XIME, every student is provided the environment to discover their own. For some, it's discovering hidden facets of themselves that inspire others. For most, the two years spent on XIME's stimulating, challenging, yet nurturing campus have been transformative.

Over decades, we have watched 4000+ eager and avid learners step onto campus with big dreams and evolve towards their own brand of leadership - showcasing the key qualities of competence, setting value-driven goals, and acquiring a broader worldview. The journey of our founder, Prof. J. Philip, who today at 87 years of age, perfectly exemplifies what we want each XIME student to be lifelong. Unstoppable, and driven by a higher purpose.

Prof. Philip led a group of kindred spirits in founding a B- School as envisioned by his late daughter, Maria Philip. Xavier Institute of Management and Entrepreneurship (XIME) embarked on its remarkable journey on May 28, 1991, in a modest shed in St. Martha's Hospital compound in Bangalore, with a diminutive initial capital and a prodigious vision.

Our aim at XIME is to develop managers who by dint of their capabilities and quality of character can respond in a creative and wholesome way to the diverse opportunities and challenges in the world of business and industry.

XIME's PGDM is a constantly evolving programme, keeping pace with today's dynamic, rapidly changing and technology-driven corporate world. At XIME, the learning is rigorous and purposeful, leveraging the case method and experience-based management education. And this is complemented by values that drive positive social impact, resulting in well-rounded leaders who're equally ready to transform businesses as well as society.
