

REGAINING STRENGTH

- ▶ With consumers flocking to the market, prices are now at a decadal high in Delhi-NCR
- ▶ After peaking in late 2015, home prices fell due to demonetisation and the roll-out of RERA

SOURCE KNIGHT FRANK RESEARCH

GROUND REPORT

- ▶ Gurugram and Noida-Greater Noida lead in terms of new launches and sales
- ▶ But the market in Delhi continues to shrink due to non-availability of land and regulations

● GURUGRAM ● GREATER NOIDA ● NOIDA
● GHAZIABAD ● FARIDABAD ● DELHI

SOURCE KNIGHT FRANK RESEARCH

surge is accommodating demand while providing choices for first-time homebuyers,” says Pradeep Aggarwal, Founder and Chairman of Delhi-based real estate firm Signature Global. “Despite the challenges faced between 2013 and 2020, government initiatives and policy reforms like RERA [Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016], have restored investor confidence, aided by the development in infrastructure and affordable housing,” he adds. Apart from the regulations protecting homebuyers’ interests, massive infrastructure development in the region is also playing a crucial role in the recent boom. For instance, enhanced connectivity in the region has elevated micro-markets like Dwarka Expressway, New Gurugram and Sohna Road.

This has led to a 6 per cent year-on-year increase in home prices in Delhi-NCR between April and June 2023, with Gurugram recording a remarkable 12 per cent YoY surge during the period. “Housing prices in Delhi-NCR have risen consistently, with a 59 per cent increase recorded along the Dwarka Expressway due to improved infrastructure. Golf Course Road in Gurugram—another micro-market that has witnessed huge improvement in road infrastructure—recorded a 42 per cent YoY rise, overtaking Delhi as the region’s highest property value market,” says Aggarwal. “The Delhi-NCR real estate market is marked by resilience, growth and shifting dynamics. The industry adapts to middle-class aspirations, guided by demand and supply