

A dark grey Lamborghini Huracán is shown from a front-three-quarter perspective, driving on a dark asphalt road. The car is illuminated by the warm, golden light of a setting or rising sun, which creates a strong lens flare and casts long, soft shadows. The car's distinctive angular design, including its sharp headlights and low profile, is highlighted. The background shows a curved road and some foliage in the distance, all bathed in the same warm, orange glow.

India's Tryst with Quiet Luxury

Luxury auto brands are seeing Indian customers' tastes shift to a new-found love for understated elegance
