

THE SAVOY, LONDON

In London you are truly spoilt for choice when it comes to afternoon tea. The one at The Savoy is being served since 1889 when the hotel opened. Enjoyed in the stunning glass-domed atrium where the gazebo takes centre stage with a pianist playing, the menu has over 30 different teas accompanied by twists on classic sandwiches, homemade scones and lemon curd. They also offer vegan and vegetarian options.

PRICE: £80 for adults; £40 for children

BADRUTT'S PALACE, ST. MORITZ

The Badrutt's Palace opened its gates at St. Moritz in 1896 and has been an institution since then, being referred to as the 'living room of St. Moritz'—the place to see and be seen. And what better way to enjoy its glamour but by experiencing teatime over afternoon tea, or champagne and caviar, all accompanied by a live pianist. Indulge your sweet tooth with delicacies such as raspberry mille-feuilles, mascarpone cremeux, carrot cake, lemon curd tartelette etc.

PRICE: CHF 85 ($93);
CHF 125 ($136)
(with champagne)

JUMEIRAH, BALI

The afternoon tea at Jumeirah, Bali is as much about the stunning views of the Indian Ocean as it is about the sweet and savoury delicacies that the chefs at the hotel whip up for their guests. Enjoy the scenic beauty of the Uluwatu coast over sunset while you sip a selection of teas and coffees from across the world. You can also gift an afternoon tea voucher to friends and family, enabling them to enjoy the experience.

PRICE: IDR 850,000 ($54)
net for two persons

| 83

LE BRISTOL, PARIS

Think Paris and French pastry immediately comes to mind so it's little wonder that the teatime menu at Le Bristol, Paris is helmed by pastry chef Yu Tanaka. Featured alongside a fine selection of teas, coffee or champagne, the pastry master's delectable menu comprises the Le Bristol Paris keychain pastry made with pistachio, orange blossom, almond milk and rose; a strawberry tart with vanilla cream; a vanilla religieuse with pecan; classic English scones and aged Caribbean rum-infused canelés. There is the much-loved lobster roll along with the truffle croque-monsieur for those looking for something savoury.

PRICE: €79; €95 (with champagne)